APG only shares your Personal Data to the extent (i) such is necessary for the provision of its services to you; or (ii) such is necessary to (legally) protect its legitimate interests in compliance with applicable law; or (iii) required by law.

APG shares your Personal Data with the Brands of APG in the following manner. To increase the chance of a match between you and a suitable job, APG has created Brands dedicated to specific sectors. Therefore, if you apply for a Brand, your Personal Data is stored in the database of that Brand. However, it is possible that vacancies available at other Brands provide an equally suitable or even better match with your profile. For that reason, the databases of each Brand are accessible to employees of other Brands. APG's employees are instructed to only source the databases of other Brands in case of 'cross Brand vacancies': vacancies that fit the profile of more than one Brand.

APG may also share your Personal Data with organizations that engaged APG or one of its Brands to fulfil vacancies on their behalf. APG will only share your Personal Data with organizations of which APG knows, or has received confirmation that, or may reasonably expect that such organization will only process your Personal Data in accordance with applicable law. Where Personal Data is transferred out of the European Economic Area, and where this is to a Brand or vendor in a country that is not subject to an adequacy decision by the European Commission, Personal Data shall -in all cases- be adequately protected under appropriate safeguards such as European Commission approved standard contractual clauses, an appropriate Privacy Shield certification or a vendor's Processor Binding Corporate Rules. APG is happy to provide you with more detailed information upon request.

WHAT IS THE APG RETENTION POLICY?

Our business is recruiting. If you found your job through APG at one point in your career, you may want to do so again at a later stage; even if you are not actively seeking a new job. Functioning as a career coach, APG considers it unpractical to delete your Personal Data from the database of a Brand after a given amount of time without you having asked us to do so. The next vacancy APG sends you may very well be your dream job! However, as removing your Personal Data from our database may not always be on the top of your mind, APG will periodically send you a reminder about your Personal Data and the option of it being removed. In any case, APG will remove your Personal Data from its database once you have reached the age of sixty-eight (68).

The Personal Data that is not included in our database, will be retained for as long as necessary to perform the purposes of processing as stated in this Privacy Statement. Each department within APG is familiar with the retention policies and shall periodically review the Personal Data to ensure that the applicable retention periods are complied with.
